NEW TRANSLATION UPDATE: THE CREED

In the new translation of the Mass texts that will make its appearance in November, 2011, the Nicene Creed contains several noticeable changes. The most obvious change is a switch from the phrase "We believe" to "I believe." Why would the Church do this? One possible explanation is that the "I believe" is a reminder to each person present that the entire faith must be professed in a personal manner. In baptism each person makes a profession of faith personally before being initiated into Christ's death and resurrection, before becoming a member of His body. Here we reaffirm that faith. Another noticeable change occurs in the new translation in describing Christ as "consubstantial" with the Father, rather than "one in being" with the Father. "One in Being" is certainly less precise than consubstantial. Someone might, after all, see this term and conclude that God the Father is a greater type of Divinity than the Son, or that "God" is composed of three divisible parts (Father, Son, and Holy Spirit) that must be added together to make One God. Consubstantial means "one in essence" or "one in substance". All of the perfections that may be said of God may be said equally of the Father and of the Son (and of the Holy Spirit), only the relations differ. This part of the Creed and its defense by the Fathers of the Church tried to preserve and express the belief that God is eternally One and yet from all eternity this one Divine essence/substance is tri-personal with the Father as the origin and the Son as His eternal Word proceeding from Him from all eternity.

CATHOLICS IN THE PUBLIC SQUARE

The Second Vatican Council characterized the distinctive vocation of the laity as a life-giving leaven in the midst of the world. The call of the Council to the lay faithful was a call to transform society from within in order to build up the kingdom of God. The Rhode Island Catholic Conference advocates for the Church's public policy positions before the Rhode Island General Assembly and other elected officials. As Catholics, we have a duty to speak for the Church in the public square. We urge you to stay informed of the activity of the Rhode Island Catholic Conference by signing up to receive email alerts. Please take a stand for Christ in our society and get involved! Visit <http://www.faithfulcitizenri.org/> for more information.

POPE'S INTENTIONS FOR JUNE

The Vatican has released the prayer intentions of Pope Benedict XVI for June 2011. The Pontiff's general prayer intention is: "That priests, united to the Heart of Christ, may always be true witnesses of the caring and merciful love of God." His mission intention is: "That the Holy Spirit may bring forth from our communities many missionaries who are ready to be fully consecrated to spreading the Kingdom of God."

DOWNSIZING

Fr. Nick has had a Name and Historical Map of Ireland (as opposed to a road map) hanging on the wall of his office for many years. It's old but interesting if you are curious about such things, pointing out the various areas of the old sod from which Irish names are derived.

He also has a framed print of the 8th hole at Pebble Beach Golf Course. For the golfer, it's a nice reminder both of the beauty of the land, and the challenge (and frustration) of the game. It too is old, but golfers never get old looking at places they can only dream about.

If you're interested in either, call Kelli McNulty, the parish manager (783-4411) They're there for the taking.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY!

This week, Deacon Paul and Jackie Iacono will celebrate their fortieth wedding anniversary! We are truly blessed by the witness of Deacon Paul and Jackie, who show our parish family not only the great gift of the permanent diaconate, but also the beauty of the vocation to marriage! Congratulations and be assured of our prayers and best wishes!

IN SPIRIT AND TRUTH: THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Today's first reading from the Acts of the Apostles indicates that the disciples returned from witnessing the Lord's ascension and devoted themselves to prayer. Prayer becomes the lifeblood of the early Church, and it is while they are at prayer that the apostles experience the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Prayer for the early Church was not merely something to be done, it was the core of the Church's very identity. The Church, from her inception, is a Church at prayer. Notice, too, that the apostles are gathered in prayer with the Blessed Virgin Mary. Mary personifies the Church in her humble submission to God's will and in her willingness to be a vessel of his grace. She is not only a hearer, but a doer of the Word. And in her prayer, she also images what the Church is called to be. It is significant that the early Church is pictured not only at prayer, but at prayer with the very paradigm of authentic discipleship. Perhaps we should recover our identity as a praying Church. We have done a great deal in the last several decades to show ourselves to be a Church engaged with the needs of the world. But without prayer, the Church loses her sacred center and becomes yet another social service organization. Today's readings challenge us to recommit ourselves, with the help of our Blessed Mother, to lives of authentic discipleship animated by vibrant prayer.

THE PARISH CHURCH

The parish church is something more than a convenient roof to keep the rain off our heads when we go to Mass; it is the expression, in architectural terms, of the parish at prayer. It sums up our history for us; we can look around us, and think of all the souls which have been nourished, generation after generation, at the same altar, all the stories of guilt which have been whispered and have died away at the same confessional, all the new recruits in Christ's army who have been regenerated at the same font. We can remember, in Christ, our fellow worshippers who knelt here at our side, and are now separated from us in body, though still united to us in the same links of prayer. It is a kind of sacrament of the parish life; its fabric, so closely knitted together, reminds us of the unity which ought to exist among the Christian family. It is a second home, in which we meet as children of the same Father round a common table. All that the parish church is; and we, so wedded by nature to the things of sense, find comfort in its abiding witness to the life of the spirit.

GREEN THUMB (OR TWO) NEEDED!

Do you have an interest in gardening? Do you have a green thumb or a knack for maintaining plants? We need your help! We want our Easter greens to last as long as possible! They need to be re-potted and cared for with proper amounts of water throughout the year. They also need some occasional sunshine. Might you be willing to help us? Please call the rectory if you're interested in keeping our beautiful church adorned with vibrant, living plants throughout the year!

YOUTH CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE (YCLI)

YCLI is an outstanding opportunity for youth between the ages of 14 and 19 who are now or will be in parish or school leadership roles. The Institute offers an opportunity for leadership development through an intense period of learning and community living. The goals of YCLI are to foster the leadership potential of each individual and to heighten his/her awareness of the responsibilities and need for youth leadership in a high school or parish community and in the larger Catholic community. YCLI 2011 will be held from Monday, June 27 to Friday, July 1 and is staffed by a team of diocesan, school and parish leaders specially trained by the Office of Catholic Youth Ministry. Our own Fr. Joe will be a part of the YCLI team this coming year. The program is held at the Father Marot Youth Center in Woonsocket which boasts a full size gym, a beautiful chapel, air conditioning and accessibility to the local YMCA pool. Please speak with Fr. Joe ASAP if you or your child might be interested in participating in this unique opportunity for Catholic youth!
